Warming Impulses...

One way for a government to increase its revenues is to reduce taxes!

Does that sound like a foolish contradiction in terms? Well, it describes exactly what has been happening in Canada. In that country's 1953-54 budget, both individual income taxes and corporation taxes were cut, by 11 per cent and 9 per cent respectively. After six months of operation, this budget had brought the government some $90,000,000 more than was the case last year when the higher tax rates were in effect.

What happened, in the words of Time, is that "the reductions apparently sent warming impulses throughout the entire Canadian economy." In other words, Canadians saw more incentive to work hard and take financial risks—and citizen and government alike came out ahead.

Sound Solution...

The President's message to Congress on health matters has again focused national attention on the problem of extending voluntary health insurance coverage and still keeping the cost within the means of the average family.

Without debating the President's proposals, there is one sound way of doing that—and it is a way which would involve no revolutionary experiment. It lies in legislation which would permit income tax deductions of medical and hospital bills, and premiums paid for health insurance. Then individuals would no longer pay heavy taxes on money which simply passed through their hands, and had to be spent for unavoidable expenses completely beyond their control.

200-Horsepower Performance
and priced far below it

Illustrated is the rakish
Buick Century Riviera "hardtop" model.

Come drive the CENTURY

biggest horsepower bargain of 1954!

THE invitation you see headlined here calls for action — and comparison.

For you have to see and drive the 200-horsepower CENTURY — and check its local delivered price — to know how it puts other automobiles in this Buick's dollar class on the spot.

Look for yourself — and you'll see what we mean.

Look at styling, new-day features, visibility, interior modernity, ride comfort, handling ease — we believe you will find nothing on the automotive horizon to equal the CENTURY on all counts.

But what will prove to be the most eye-opening news of all is the power buy you make in this spectacular Buick.

When you compare — when you check the facts — you find that you are buying more horsepower per dollar in a CENTURY than you get in any other standard-production

American automobile, bar none.

And it is horsepower that gives you brilliant performance, greater economy, new safety — for here you get the highest power-to-weight ratio in all Buick history.

Why not come in and see the whole story come alive when you take the wheel of a Buick CENTURY?

We know of no better way to prove to you that this gorgeous, glamorous sweep of automobile is the power buy of the year — by far.

Big Institute On Grass Set For Kalkaska Friday, March 5th

Getting the most feed value out of roughage, in the barn or as pasture, will be a feature of the big area Winter Grass Institute Friday, March 5th, at Kalkaska High School gymnasium.

The program, from 9:30 A. M. until 3:30 P. M. will include movies, slide-illustrated reports, forage experiences and sample judging. Farmers from counties all over this area will be present.

The program arranged by Robert C. Dewey, host agricultural agent, with aid of farmer committees and neighbor agents, gives farmers an important place—on panels discussing actual forage experiences.

Movies will be shown from 9:45 until 10:15 A. M. and they will cover ways to make grassland farming pay, reports Edward D. Longnecker, Michigan State College Grass Days committee chairman. Discussions on soil management, at 10:15 A. M. will be led by Longnecker, soil scientist, and high yields will be stressed.

High quality feed will be the main point featured in forage crop management ideas given by Dennis L. Clanshan, farm cropsman, at 10:45 A. M. A half hour later, Robert L. Maddox, agricultural engineer, will discuss harvesting and storage to maintain high quality.

Luncheon will be served by the Kalkaska High School Seniors. Forage samples brought in by farmers will be judged during the lunch hour, from 11:45 A. M. to 1:15 P. M.

Feeding for profits will be discussed in the afternoon by George Parsons, dairyman, and by Graydon Blank, animal husbandman from the college. Slides will be shown of farmers growing and using grass.

Then, from 2:30 until 3:15 P. M., there will be a roundtable grassland farming panel discussion. The panel members will be farmers from neighboring counties who have experiences with forage production, and the moderator will be Orville Walker, Associate County Agricultural Agent.

The discussion will stress both production and feeding of grass. The final 15 minutes will be for a summary of the various points and announcement of forage sample winners.

It will pay farmers who use considerable pasture, raise dairy cows or other livestock and who seek greater profits from roughages to attend the entire program.

YOUR MILK...

Just how important is a woman to a man? The answer is, far more than a man is willing to admit. To start off with, the first three years of our life is worth more to us under a good mother's training, than all other schools put together. And when we grow up and find ourselves a wife, she takes over in a secret way. When we get in a rut, she pulls us out and when things don't go as good as we think they ought to, a few words of encouragement puts us on the right track again. Most men have the habit of finding fault with the meals and housekeeping. But let the women go away for a week and the man takes over, he soon runs into all kinds of trouble. He will eat about anything he finds and calls it good, never washes a dish, spills some of everything he handles over the stove and floor. When she come home and reminds him of the mess he's made, he is apt to say, "Where do you keep the broom, I couldn't find it." A man will want all the credit but if he ever does anything worthwhile there is always a woman at the bottom of it. A bad and wicked woman has the same influence over a man in the wrong direction. If he keeps her company, she will not stop short of his destruction and in a short time he will get to the road where there is no return. Don't forget the name — Crawford County produced milk — and place — Hunter's AuSable Dairy in Grayling.

Crawford County Dairymens Assn.

Letters To The Editor

February 24, 1954

Mr. Robert W. Strong
Editor, Crawford Avalanche
Grayling, Michigan

Dear Mr. Strong:

It is my understanding that the February 11th and February 18th issues of the Crawford Avalanche carried some material relating to the Winter Test Project of the Committee on Winter Driving Hazards, recently completed. I would like to have three copies of each of these papers for my files, and would appreciate it if you would send them to me at your earliest convenience. If there is any charge, please bill me accordingly.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you, and through you, the people of Grayling, for the tremendous amount of friendliness and cooperation accorded to our Committee during our recent visit. The ability of the people of Grayling to make the members of our Committee feel so much at home and so much a part of the community was of inestimable value in maintaining the morale among this group of men, especially when troubled by delays due to weather and equipment.

It would be impossible to thank each of the people who helped to make our test program successful. However, the citizens of Grayling should be very proud of such people as Grant Thompson, Russ Carlson, Don Gothro, "Casey" Cason, Roy Trudgen, Phyllis Goss, Jack Millikin and all of the other people who have helped to make the "Grayling Tests" a byword in the safety field.

Sincerely,

Stanley T. Siegel
Secretary
Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

Church Circle Enjoys Birthday Party

The Mary Martha Circle of the M. M. Church enjoyed their annual Birthday Party at the Church Monday evening Feb. 22 together with their families. The members of the Mary Ruth Circle and their families were guests. Almost 100 persons sat down to tables decorated to represent the 12 months of the year; each one centered with a beautifully decorated Birthday cake. You should have seen these cakes.

After lunch was over, an enjoyable program was put on by the various months. Musical numbers, an accordion solo, a cornet solo, a clarinet solo, dramatic readings, and several humorous numbers as well as group singing.

Later games were enjoyed by the young people, directed by Ted Wheeler and Ernest Larson; while the dishes were being taken care of in the kitchen.

Mrs. J. L. Martin was general chairman, assisted by the Circle president, Mrs. Russell Mosher and Mrs. Glen Fenton and the chairmen of the 12 tables: Mrs. A. Atkinson, Mrs. Grace Andrews, Mrs. R. Funck, Mrs. Russell Wright, Mrs. E. Larson, Mrs. A. Wakeley, Mrs. Tom Robertson, Mrs. R. C. Puffer, Mrs. Carl E. Johnson, Mrs. Phil Smith, Mrs. Jack Fenton and Mrs. Carl Richardson. Besides those who made the Birthday cakes, and furnished sandwiches and pickles for the lunch, in addition to the ice cream served.

Laurie McCann says a sleepy goodnight to Mom and Dad (Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. McCann) as they tuck him in. Below, Mrs. McCann tells how Laurie has benefitted from being told that he is an adopted child. She and her husband are well-known for their radio talks on food.

Speaking of Families

By BETH JUDSON

Laurie was three months old when Dora and Alfred McCann, the famous radio food authorities, brought him into their home. Now he's five... and life couldn't be rosier.

Yet the McCanns suspect that some time or other Laurie's feeling of security and well-being may be in for a jolt. Kids being what they are, he'll probably be on the receiving end of well-aimed taunts. "Aw, your mommy isn't your real mommy. You're adopted!"

When this happens, though, it will come as no shock to Laurie. Not even news! He's had the truth straight from his parents ever since he was old enough to understand.

"He loves to have me tell him how he came to be our baby," said Mrs. McCann. "Lots of times at bedtime when I start to read him a story, he'll stop me and say, 'Mommy, tell about when I was a baby, instead.'"

"So I tell him the same story all over again. Of course, I fill in more details and make it more dramatic as he grows older. But the basic story is the same: 'How God sent us our daughter, Patsy... how we waited and waited but He didn't send us another baby... how we went all the way to the city to look at babies who had no daddies and mommies... and how one day the nurse held out a nice baby boy we knew was just right for us.'"

Nor do the McCanns skirt around the word "adopted." "My sweet adopted baby," Mrs. McCann loves to whisper as Laurie snuggles close. This way, he feels that being adopted is something to be proud of. Something very, very special.

What these foresighted parents are trying to do, you see, is to fortify Laurie well with security and love. At the same time, they're careful not to overdo the adopted angle to the point where Laurie may feel "different" or "superior."

So far, it's worked out just fine. Mrs. McCann said she was never more sure of it than the day she overheard a bit of childish chatter between Laurie and one of his little playmates.

"I'm just like you," Laurie was explaining seriously, "only you see my mother didn't hatch me herself!"
